On a 23-acre site five miles from Carmel and the Pacific Ocean, Carmel Valley Manor lies in a beautiful setting chosen for its proximity to a myriad of community advantages for retirement living. The Monterey Peninsula is renowned for its rich diversity of interesting events in art, music, theatre, sports and recreation, as well as scenic beauty.

Four different sizes of living accommodations are provided for the 225 residents, ranging from a studio apartment to a two bedroom cottage, to place Carmel Valley Manor within the financial reach of most retired persons. The main building, the medical center, library, chapel-auditorium and many other facilities are designed to meet every need.

The Manor provides guaranteed life care, including medical care, even if residents should suffer financial misfortune. It welcomes persons of every race or creed who are above age 62, in reasonably good health and who are congenial with the ideals of the Manor.

Residents pay lump sum entrance fees for life-time occupancy of the living units, and a monthly fee provides for care and services which include meals, medical care, linen and maid services, and all the essentials for comfortable, secure living.
